THURSDAY, MARCH 20, 1873.

LOCAL MATTER.

E. C. WOODSON, City Editor.

THE AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL AND JOURNAL, an eight-page Weekly published in this city, will be published with the DAILY NEWS at $3.00 per annum, and with the WEEKLY NEWS at $3.00 per annum. Orders directed to either paper will receive prompt attention.

Correspondents will please write on one side of the paper.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Peach trees are in full bloom.

Groceries of every kind can be found at Wayne Alcott's. Call and see him.

The meetings at the Salisbury street Baptist church are growing in interest.

We learn that W. H. Finch, Esq., left this city yesterday evening on a visit to Tennessee.

In a few days the suburban portions of the city will be vocal with the musical carolings of birds.

C. S. Allen, Esq., is about to erect a dwelling, on the corner of Hargett and Harrison streets.

The frame of the new warehouse, at the depot of the North Carolina Railroad, is nearly completed, and will be raised in a few days.

Messrs. W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co. announce this morning that they have received a new lot of beautiful goods.
Call and see them.

The last shingle roof on Fayetteville has disappeared. It was covered with tin on yesterday by the well known tinner, Mr. J. C. Lumsden.

New walkways have been laid on the top of the Capitol. We are glad to see this, as the old ones were so dilapidated as to be positively dangerous.

N. J. Riddick, Esq., the popular and efficient clerk of the United States Circuit Court, is on a visit to his home in Gates county, on account of the illness of his mother.

Yesterday morning a steer-cart capsized on Wilmington street, catching the colored driver under it. He yelled lustily for help, and was soon rescued from the unpleasant predicament.

The first mist juleps of the season appeared yesterday at the saloon of Miller & Nelson, under the Market.
Capt. Laswell a connoisseur of rare genius, does them up in style, and we must say in quality unsurpassed.

The members of Hyam Lodge, No.
40, F. & A. M., will meet promptly in their Hall this evening at 1 1/2 o'clock to pay the last tribute of respect to their departed brother, W. E. Lee. Members of other Lodges are requested to participate in the solemn ceremonies.

The meetings at the Baptist Church are progressing finely we learn, the congregations being good, and much interest manifested in the services. Several persons have presented themselves as seekers of religion. Rev. J. D. Hatham is aiding the pastor in the meeting.

We learn that Judge D. G. Fowle will remove in a day or two his sawmill, located near this city, to Beaufort county on Blount's creek, upon the land of Mr. W. A. Blount, where timber in large quantities and of good quality can be had.

It is said that Miss Gaylord intends shortly to honor this city by lecturing here. As the papers containing notices of her, which we have read, with astonishing unanimity agree that she is a humbly, we will be so ungallant as to hope that she may postpone her visit.

Hon. Geo. Davis, of New Hanover, Hon. M. E. Mauney, of Craven, and Col.
Walter L. Steele, of Richmond county, have notified the Governor that they will be present at the meeting in this city, on the 2nd of next month, of the Commissioners appointed to adjust the affairs of the Western N. C. R. R.

Martha Norwood, a colored damsel of comparatively a few years, was ruthlessly brought before his Honor, the Mayor, yesterday morning, charged with having been guilty of disorderly conduct on Hargett street. The testimony did not fully sustain the charge, and she was allowed to go on her way, after being somewhat severely advised as to her future walk and conversation.

We are glad to learn that the blowing up of the boiler at Dowd's Mills, at Apex, a few days since, resulted in no fatal effect. The negro man was severely hurt, but will recover. The younger brother of Dr. Dowd was cut in several places, but was in the city yesterday. The boiler was a total wreck, the accident having been occasioned by a defect in it. The loss sustained amounted to over $1,000.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.—The down accommodation or through freight train over the Raleigh and Gaston road leaves Raleigh now at 9 p. m., instead of 8 a. m. The same train now comes up the road on Saturday nights, and goes down Sunday nights. Parties traveling over this road on the night train should make a note of these facts.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Rev. Mr.
Penick, of Mechanicsville, will preach in the Presbyterian Church this evening at 7:30 p. m., and on each succeeding evening of the week. The public are invited to attend.

NEW STYLES.—Messrs. Ramsey & Co. are receiving their Spring Clothing and Hats, which are beautiful and cheap.
Dress shirts they make a specialty.
Give them a call.

RESIGNED.—Yesterday the resignation of E. H. Walker, Esq., as Commissioner of Wrecks, was received at the Executive office.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE LIFE IN-SURANCE COMPANY.—We are gratified to have it in our power to announce that this Company is now in full operation. We happened yesterday to stroll into their handsomely fitted up office on the second floor of the Citizens, National Bank building. In point of convenience and completeness of arrangement, a better one could not be desired.

In the outfit of the office there is one feature which we particularly commend:

All of the books, blank forms, etc., are of home manufacture and are of workmanship as good as could be procured anywhere. The policy forms were printed in this city and are of typographical beauty. They were gotten up under the supervision of Major F. H.

Cameron, the Vice President of the Company, and are the neatest and most complete we have ever seen. The vignette upon them is a most handsome one. It consists of a female figure, typical of North Carolina, surrounded by the productions of the State with a noble pine forest and the ocean in the distance, and the name of the company, emblematic of the protection which the operations of the company throw over the industries of the State.

In a word, the outfit of the company is as thorough in every particular as it could well be, and all the completeness of the appointments between the guidance of an experienced and skillful hand.

The company has secured the services of some of the most active business men of the State as agents, among whom are James H. Moore, Jacob A. Long,

H. A. London, and a number of others whose names we do not now remember.

Already has a most flattering progress been made in the organization of the State. Applications for policies are coming rapidly in, and on every side gratification is expressed that we have another strong and reliable home life company to meet the increasing demands in insurance in this State. The success of the company is assured beyond all doubt and its continued prosperity will be a source of pleasure to all who have the true interest of the State at heart. As to the proper management of the affairs of the company there can be no doubt, as all of the gentlemen having their direction are well known throughout the whole State for their business qualifications and integrity of character.

REV. DR. PENDLETON—TRAVELING

IN THE INTEREST OF THE LEE CHURCH

AT LEXINGTON.—This eminent Divine, well known as Gen. Pendleton, Chief of Artillery of the Army of Northern Virginia, accompanied by his daughter, arrived in this city on yesterday afternoon, and took rooms at the Yarboro

House.

Gen. Pendleton is on a mission to the Southern towns and cities, in behalf of the Lee Episcopal Church at Lexington, Virginia. The design of this Church originated with Gen. Robert E.

Lee, and at his death was uncompleted.

At the request of the Washington-Lee University, Gen. Pendleton consented to visit the Southern States to raise funds for the completion of Gen. Lee's plans in connection with the Church.

We are pleased to learn that General

Pendleton will read his MEMORIAL AD-DRESS, in this city this evening, the place to be announced by hand-bills today. This address was first read on the 20th of January last, at the anniversary celebration of Lee's birth-day, and was prepared at the request of the students of Washington Lee University and citizens of Lexington, and has since been read at Lynchburg to an immense audience.

General Pendleton's intimate personal acquaintance with General Lee and therefore can speak of his personal knowledge concerning the latter's private virtues as well as great public worth.

We bespeak for General Pendleton a large outpouring to-night of the patriotic citizens of Raleigh.

There will be no admission fee to hear the address, persons being allowed to contribute to the fund subsequent to the address, if they think fit.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE AT OXFORD.—It is generally known that this property is now owned by the Grand Lodge of Masons of this State. There are, it is supposed, claims, though not of a large amount, against the Grand Lodge on account of the erection of the buildings, &c. The Grand Lodge, at its annual communication in December last, appointed a committee composed of Messrs. R. W. York, F. H. Busbee, W. R.

Cox, Geo. B. Harris and Sion H. H.

Rogers to ascertain if possible the exact amount of such claims and report to the Grand Lodge at its next annual communication.

DISAPPOINTMENT CHILLS THE HEART OF MAN.

The only change in the President's Cabinet is the appointment of William A. Richardson to succeed Boutwell, as Secretary of the Treasury, the latter having resigned to take his seat in the United States Senate.

It is said Boutwell vehemently opposed Richardson, who was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under him. A number of the members of the Massachusetts Legislature, while personally friendly to Boutwell, preferred that he should remain Secretary of the Treasury, as he had managed the finances of the country to suit the bondholders and capitalists of Massachusetts and they feared that, any change in the Treasury department might be followed by a different financial policy than that which has heretofore marked Boutwell's official career.

Boutwell and Richardson have not always agreed in their views on the subject of the finances, and with the prospect of Richardson's being Boutwell's successor in case of the latter's election to the United States Senate, some of the Massachusetts Legislators were unwilling to vote for Boutwell for Senator, unless he would oppose and prevent Richardson's appointment as Secretary of the Treasury. Of course Boutwell promised, and, as we learn from a gentleman who has recently returned from Washington City, endeavored to make good his pledge to defeat Richardson. He did all in his power to have another aspirant appointed; but the President had made up his mind, and was determined to have Richardson and nobody else. Boutwell's disappointment is said to be pitiful; and his Massachusetts friends who voted to make him Senator, with the understanding that Richardson should not be appointed in his stead, are no doubt equally crest-fallen and chagrined. Grant is a stubborn man, and has a way of his own when he has formed a resolution; and it was rather imprudent in Boutwell to promise the Massachusetts Legislature anything on the subject.

When a man is a candidate for office, especially the high office of Senator of the United States, it need not be deemed surprising that he becomes prolific in pledges. He should not make pledges, however, that it may not be in his power to redeem; and, therefore, Senator Boutwell was wrong in leading the Massachusetts Legislature to believe that he could dictate his successor in the Treasury department. But for this belief on the part of the Legislature, it is not improbable that Daves, or one of the other candidates for the Senatorship, would have defeated Boutwell.

Boutwell, however, is not the only man who has been disappointed in regard to the Cabinet appointments.

Two Radical lights from this State have been waging a fierce and unrelenting war against each other, for a recognition of their respective claims at the hands of the Administration. Judge Thomas Settle and Ex-United States Senator Pool, represent the two antagonizing wings of North Carolina Radicals. After Pool's defeat for re-election to the Senate, he immediately set to work to secure some appointment from President Grant. He wanted a place in the President's Cabinet, and proceeded to procure certificates of his services and sacrifices in behalf of the Republican party. He first obtained the endorsement of the Radical caucus in the North Carolina Legislature, which voted him a vote of thanks for party fealty and fidelity, and commended his skill, ability and self-sacrifice in defeating the Conservative nominee for United States Senator, by withdrawing from the race. Mr. Pool continued to hunt evidences of his devoted zeal and attachment to Radicalism, and succeeded, we believe, in getting the endorsement of a number of the Southern Radical members of Congress, and other leading politicians. So far Pool seemed to have had matters all his own way, and as no competitor from the South had yet arisen, his prospects were fair and his hopes buoyant. In fact, it was published in the papers, seemingly by Pool's authority, that the President had expressed his intention to make him Postmaster General in his new Cabinet.

Suddenly, however, the skies darkened and the whole scene changed. Another Richmond, in the person of Judge Settle himself, entered the field, and fear and pallor were detected in the countenances of Pool and his friends. The recognized leader of the anti-Pool Radicals entered the lists, and the feathers of the would-be Postmaster General drooped, in the twinkling of an eye.

The war then commenced in earnest, and movements and counter-movements by the respective adherents of the two rival chiefs, were the order of the day. The contest, although fierce and bitter, has not ended, nor is likely to end soon, yet it has produced recent outcroppings which give decided indications that the Settle wing is in the ascendant, and the Poolites are on a hasty retreat. Mr. Pool has not been appointed Postmaster General; the old incumbent being retained. Pool and his friends are doubtless great ly disappointed in this; but they seem consoled with the reflection that Settle has also been left out of the Cabinet, and that is glory enough to them for one day. We incline to the opinion that Settle was more anxious to defeat Pool than to secure the appointment for himself, as he is already provided for on the Supreme Court Bench. Pool had the start of Settle; had matters all his own way, until the astute Ex-Peruvian came forward on the scene and dashed his hopes to the ground.

Again: Samuel T. Carrow, Ex-United States Marshal was Pool's firm, unyielding, devoted friend. Carrow wished to see Pool appointed to a Cabinet position, and forthwith Judge Settle decreed the Ex-Marshall's de-capitation. He whispered to his cousin, Col. Robert M. Douglass, that the Marshalship of North Carolina was a snug berth, and gave a man political influence and position; and if he could get Grant to confer the appointment upon himself, it would not only be a punishment to Carrow, Pool's friend, but also a "very good thing on ice" for Douglass.

As soon as Douglass' wishes were made known to Grant, that man of iron will and marble heart determined that his Private Secretary should have the place, and gave it to him accordingly. Douglass is now Marshal, whereas Pool and Carrow are greatly disappointed and mortified. To soothe the wounded feelings of the Ex-Marshall, some of his sorrow-stricken, sympathetic friends secured for him the contract for superintending the building of the United States Court Room and Post Office in this city, with wages at $10 per day. And thus this great Radical functionary descends from a United States Marshal to be a Superintendent of a public building—with less than half the pay of his former office! Truly, "disappointments sink the heart of man!"

FIGHT OVER THE NEW ORLEANS COLLECTORSHIP.

There is a lively fight in the Senate over the confirmation of Casey, recently appointed by the President Collector at New Orleans.

Our noon dispatches announce that he will probably be confirmed by one or two votes.

Opposition to Casey comes from some of the leading Republicans, as well as from the Democratic side of the House.

FEDERAL KU KLUX.

One of the resolutions of the Rhode Island Democratic Convention expresses sympathy for the people of Louisiana who are being compelled by Federal bayonets to submit to the "Federal Ku Klux" outrages, under the Kellogg conspiracy.

Such lawlessness and usurpation as have been shown by the Radicals in Louisiana, with the consent and aid of the President, should call forth universal condemnation.

THE EVILS OF RAILROAD MONOPOLY.—THE PENNSYLVANIA CENTRAL.

Should any Railroad monopoly obtain control in North Carolina, our people will be at the mercy of a soulless corporation. The State will then become a helpless victim in the hands of speculators and selfish capitalists, who care nothing for the public welfare so that they become rich, and powerful, and resistless. We publish below from the Lancaster (Pa.) Intelligencer, an article on the Pennsylvania Railroad in Virginia, and as this mammoth foreign corporation may have some designs in this State, it will be well for our people to be forewarned of its grasping power and speculative designs ere it is too late to strike down its influence and to throw off its shackles.

We are opposed to Railroad as to all other monopolies, because we believe them to be destructive of the rights of States and of individuals, and if they once get control, there is no limit or restraint to their tyranny and domination.

Speaking of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Virginia, the Lancaster Intelligencer says:

"Our readers will naturally wonder what railroad connections the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, running east and west, can possibly want with roads running north and south in eastern Virginia; since it would seem to be physically impossible for the latter to throw any important trade upon the former. The simple answer, probably, is that the Pennsylvania Railroad has no such wants or interests, but its managers and the freight monopoly baronies that are attached to it may obviously have important private interest to subvert in controlling freights anywhere; and they are sufficiently unscrupulous to use the immense power and resources of the railroad which they manage in obtaining this control.

The Pennsylvania Railroad managers are striving now to get possession of a through line of railroad from New York to New Orleans along the Atlantic coast and through the cotton States; their object being to obtain control of the cotton and other freight of the South and Southwest, of which they will probably throw what they can upon the western connections of their main line at Cincinnati. They cannot otherwise get any of this freight upon the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, unless they take it around from Baltimore by way of Harrisburg or Lancaster. They, however, act in concert with the direct lines from New York to Baltimore, from which latter city they have lately finished a road of their own to Washington. They have a charter for a railroad from Washington to Fredericksburg, in Virginia. They also control the line of railroad from Richmond to the Southwest, passing through Danville, Va., Columbia, S. C., and Augusta, Ga. There is, therefore, wanting in their through line only the short link between Richmond and Fredericksburg; and this is what they are striving now to obtain from the Virginia Legislature.

With several competing railroads in a State, none of which are allowed to become so powerful as to engulf the others, the local interests of the State will prosper, and the people will govern their State and their railroads. New Jersey and Pennsylvania are shining examples of the fate which overtakes States which are traversed by mammoth through-line railroads of overwhelming power; they are governed by them.

Virginia will be fortunate if she escapes from the deadly grasp of the Pennsylvania railroad. We in Pennsylvania have had sad experience of the management of this road, which uses our State but as a pathway by which products of the West may reach the city of New York. Local interests along the line of the road are ruthlessly sacrificed, and manufacturers are prevented from springing up thereon because of the discrimination in freights made against the towns on the line for whose carrying trade the railroad has no competition, and in favor of localities outside of the State which are blessed with a choice of railroads to take their goods to market. Here in the city of Lancaster, a town of twenty thousand population, no less than three passenger trains a day run at rapid speed across our streets, not anything to stop an instant within our limits to accommodate the travel of our city. Such may be the fate of Richmond if this road gets its charter to Fredericksburg. Some of these days it will see passenger trains being driven rapidly across its outskirts without stopping, because the exigencies of competition for "through" travel forbid the accommodation of local traffic. Even Philadelphia is treated in this way by the Pennsylvania railroad, and a through train rushes through it every night from New York to the West without stopping. The interests of Philadelphia, the mother of Pennsylvania railroad, a city that built it and nursed it into vigor, are sacrificed to those of New York; and the road finds its profit in so doing; and its managers know no guide but self-interest.

A Convention between France and Germany has been signed at the two capitals which provides for the payment of the fifth milliard of francs of the war indemnity in installments. It is understood Baring Brothers & Co., and the Rothschilds have undertaken the financial arrangements. With the exception of Verdun all France is to be evacuated by the German troops by July 1, and Verdun by September 5th. The promptness with which the French people affords the best evidence of their loyalty and patriotism.

BEWARE!—The public in general are cautioned to look out for the spurious articles put up in imitation of, and as substitutes for Simons' Liver Regulator. Buy only from respectable druggists, and see that it is put up in square packages, and has the signature of A. Q. Simmons and J. H. Zinn & Co., on its side; all others are fraud upon the public. 11.96. We learn from a source altogether reliable that on last Thursday night, two of the officers, Mr. Alpine of this place, and Mr. Seaver, went to the of H. C. Seaver, just outside the limits of this city, for the purpose of seizing some blockade whiskey, which they supposed to be somewhere near the house. A number of wagons were sent near the house. These wagons entered and searched, but not in the way of the contraband goods could be found. They then went to the house of Mr. Seaver, and demanded admission. This was at 11 o'clock, the lights were out and the family asleep. The officers were promptly admitted to the house and they then went to the store of Mr. Seaver, and found that there was no whiskey. After searching throughout the house, they found a barrel of whiskey in the back of the house. They then went to the

Our city authorities have been setting out young shade trees. This is what has been needed for a long time. The same thing was done last year, but the city being a little better this year than last, it is hoped the like will not be done again.

Mrs. Brown, widow of the late Swift Brown who was killed by accident on the N. C. Railroad some two years ago, has sued out judgment against the company for $10,000 damages, which it is generally believed she will recover.

The colored bar is patronized by some Court has adjourned. And but little business of importance transacted. A case was argued last week, concerning two men fighting in Church during preaching, about a dog, resulting in the defendant having to pay the enormous amount of one cent. Such work is a disgrace to the county, and should be discontinued by those who know better. Three negroes were sent to the Penitentiary on Thursday.

The putting up of the iron cornice around the caves of our new Court House is nearly finished.

Last Saturday was the anniversary of the battle of Guilford, which was fought in 1781, during the Revolutionary war.

The first blood shed of that war was spilt on Guilford soil and the last battle was also fought on Guilford soil.

The report of a case of bigamy is in circulation. The names of the parties are unknown. Year after year the ruin of the country is becoming more evident, and, as a Baptist minister remarked, some great calamity will come upon us we know it. It is the first instance of bigamy on record in the county.

This ungodly man must have Brigham Young on his brain. Something should be done with him; if the county court don't take him in hand, then some other court should.

The colored boy who fell off the Methodist College last Summer—same distance Mr. Barringer fell—is in well at work again on the College building. In his fall he broke a large sleeper, and, being an aged man, the fall was the cause of his death. All hopes entertained of his recovery were given up

Sunday morning, and Monday evening about 7 o'clock he died, a Christian man, a good minister, leaving a family of five boys and one daughter and many warm friends to deplore his earthly loss, but their loss is heavenly gain. His funeral was preached by Rev. J. A. Cunningham in the Methodist church. Many sorrowing friends followed his mortal remains to the Methodist cemetery,

Tuesday evening, where he was buried.

Much feeling is expressed by sympathizing friends for his bereaved family at the death of their father. Thus an able minister, much respected, honored by all, passes from our midst.

Mrs. McLean, widow of the late

Hon. Robt. McLean, an eminent lawyer, died Sunday evening at an advanced age. Rev. J. A. Cunningham preached her funeral, after which she was conveyed to the Presbyterian cer-metery, and interred.

House-keeping has become quite a common practice among some of our young men. Accidents will happen in the best regulated families. Will Isley, a young blood, while on his way to the racing grounds Monday evening, met with a painful accident in which he got his arm broken close to the wrist. It seems that his horse stumbled and fell, with the above result.

Several Canadian families have arrived within the last week and settled in this county.

Mattie Gaylord, the young English lectress, lectured Tuesday night.

The great Wizzard and Ventri-quist, Valentine Vox, will tickle the vanity of the citizens here next Friday night.

Dr. R. H. Towles of your city, has Every Saturday evening, after the employees of the various factories, workshops, &c., are paid off for their work, which is about five o'clock, there is a general rush to all the grocery establishments, and the grocery men are run nearly to death from that time till a late hour in the night, waiting on the customers. They lay in a supply of the groceries very often employ an additional clerk or two in readiness for the "storm."

Five persons were initiated in the good Templar's Lodge Monday night.
